Tamarind Intelligence

Transforming data into strategic advantage

Actionable data at your fingertips

Welcome to Tamarind

Novel nicotine products have come a long way in the ten years we have been tracking and providing data on the sector. With more than $50bn in global sales and over 100m consumers, this is already a sizeable and dynamic industry, and one that will continue to grow fast and evolve.

But with the world's combustible cigarette market still worth over $800bn, and over 1bn smokers, there remains a huge opportunity to move consumers into less risky forms of nicotine – just as there are huge opportunities of different kinds opening up in the worldwide cannabinoid markets.

I am passionately confident that in highly fragmented sectors such as these, our quantitative market and consumer data and regulatory and policy tracking remain the best source of information for the sector.

We are committed to providing data and analysis that makes a practical, actionable difference – including strategic and commercial data for manufacturers, brands and suppliers, and comprehensive tracking for policy-makers and regulators.

If you think we can help you enhance your strategic planning, improve your regulatory compliance, or develop your commercial position in this highly competitive market, please do get in touch to discuss how we can help.

Introduction to Tamarind Intelligence

Data analysis helping you to navigate through opaque regulatory markets

Welcome to Tamarind Intelligence Group, a pioneering data intelligence and strategic insight provider since our establishment in 2014. Our work is marked by a commitment to providing essential guidance and data-based strategic insights to professionals in fast-moving, consumer-facing sectors.

The birth

Our journey began in 2014 when we recognised the increased need for accurate market and regulatory insights in the electronic cigarette sector. This led to the birth of our flagship brand, ECigIntelligence. Since then, ECigIntelligence has become synonymous with industry expertise, delivering indispensable intelligence to businesses and becoming the leading provider of detailed global market and regulatory analysis, legal tracking, and quantitative data for the e-cigarette sector worldwide.

Expansion

Building on the success of ECigIntelligence and anticipating the rise of the CBD industry, we expanded our horizons in 2018 with the launch of CBD-Intel. This new adventure was dedicated to covering the complex world of CBD, providing clients with the same level of accuracy and strategic insights that had become our hallmark.

In 2020, the nicotine product landscape evolved and this led us to the creation of TobaccoIntelligence, solidifying our position as a leader in providing essential intelligence across the spectrum of nicotine-based products.

Our commitment to staying ahead of industry developments and responding to market demands prompted a significant evolution in 2022. Responding to growing interest in cannabis data, we rebranded CBD-Intel as CannIntelligence. This strategic move expanded our coverage to encompass the entire cannabis sector, providing clients with comprehensive insights.

Today

Under the umbrella of Tamarind Intelligence, we operate with one prime focus – the provision of strategic insight based on solid data and expert analysis. We specialise in areas characterised by opaque regulatory environments, helping businesses to make informed decisions and optimise their strategies.
